SSI hubcity. The right solution.

Mission/Vision

Our mission is to remain an agile, proficient leader in innovative technology and applications. A company that offers a no-nonsense, hands-on approach to the professional design, installation and management of complex solutions.

Our flexibility and proactive technique sets us apart. We enthusiastically settle for nothing less than exceeding your expectations. We listen closely and set our sights on helping you increase profits, reach more customers and boost revenue.

Partners

SSI hubcity takes a three-pronged approach to partnering. Of course, every company with which we partner must offer a superior product. That's just the beginning. Equally important is whether a potential partner offers a customer-centric channel program that benefits our clients. Lastly, we partner only with companies whose employees' standards of excellence match our own - and yours.

Company Overview

SSI hubcity is a new company that goes way back. The fusion of SSI and Hub City Media is actually the official pairing of two successful technology firms operated by longtime colleagues whose mutual respect evolved into friendship.

It binds the impressive software infrastructure talents of Hub City Media with the data management, security and managed-services prowess of SSI. Both companies embraced a forthright, personable approach to business. SSI Hubcity continues that tradition.

SSI Hubcity defines synergy. Merged, the two companies - already vibrant with camaraderie, talent and a humanistic approach - are a powerhouse of expertise. Connect with us and your business will prosper.

Philosophy

First you learn to listen. Then you listen to learn. We approach technology and business challenges with open minds, decades of experience and a focus on really listening to customers. We staff only the finest experts and we nurture their ability to be creative and imaginative in crafting optimal solutions. You get straight talk about technology and we back our words with decisive action.

Technology is ever-evolving. Our goal is to meet today's business challenges with today's superior technologies and meld them in cost-effective ways. Our confidence is based on our competence. We don't just sell solutions. We are the solution.

Solutions

Software infrastructure design, data lifecycle management, security and managed services. It's what we do, and we do it better because we don't burden you with layers of middlemen. We staff only the best and that's who you'll get. There is no "B-Team" at SSI hubcity.

Data Lifecycle Management. All data is not created equal! Some data assets are more valuable than others and data that's critical today might be less vital in the future. If you're not tailoring your data management investment with an eye on your data's ever-changing value, you're wasting money.

SSI hubcity takes a practical approach that balances the cost of storing information with its value, over time, to your business. Whether its recovery plans, backup architecture, clustering or data replication services, we assess the service-level requirements of your information assets and determine the most cost effective way to allocate your hardware, software and service investments.

Information Security. You want your business to grow, but every move you make can expose your vital systems and data to unwanted risk. At SSI hubcity, we go beyond merely protecting your current information assets. We know how to secure your future.

Most other providers address security in one of two ways. They focus on processes or on point-solutions. This can leave you vulnerable. We take a cost-effective, holistic approach. We understand that security must saturate your whole enterprise so we cover all the proper services, point solutions and personnel training needed to round out a vigilant IT environment.

Managed Services. You have a great staff. But managing large IT systems can be daunting and costly. Our knowledge and expertise take the headache out of managing vital information systems. We're a partner that can be trusted for system monitoring, managed remote system administration, remote database administration services and managed security services. Using SSI hubcity's managed services brings an added bonus: Continuous exposure to third-party experts who offer fresh, creative perspectives that can save money and boost revenue.

Software Infrastructure Development. You're business is unique. Generic software can impede its growth. Maybe your information systems don't communicate with each other. Perhaps you need a system to track transactions or take orders. Planning on rolling out a line or business? You'll need customized software.

If there's a business need, we can fill it with software that supports new business processes or streamlines and supports existing ones. Few can match our years of experience - grounded in financial-market software creation - or our ability to craft advanced solutions that go way beyond the commonplace.
